MOKENA MAN IS MISSING IN ACTION

Fred Marti Former Frankfort Hwy. Commissioner Dies

Fred Marti, aged 85 years, died Wednesday morning in the home of his daughter Mrs. Henry J. Bettenhausen in Tinley Park. He had been in poor health for the past two years.

He was born in Frankfort Township and had resided in this section all his life. He served as Highway Commissioner of Frankfort township for a number of years.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Henry J. Bettenhausen and Mrs. Verna Groth, one son Ezra of Spencer, 9 grand children, 2 brothers, Frank and John, one sister Mrs. John Minger of Frankfort.

Funeral services will be held at the Hirsch Chapel in Tinley Park Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock and at St. Peter's Evangelical and Reformed church in Frankfort at 2 o'clock with the Rev. Eric Bizer officiating.

Interment will be made in the Pleasant Hill cemetery at Frankfort. The Bettenhausen Hardware Store in Tinley Park will be closed during the funeral hours until 5 p. m.

WILL CO., CLUB LEAGUE HOLDS FALL TRIENNIAL

The fall triennial meeting of the Will County Club League with which the Frankfort Woman's Club is affiliated was held Tuesday morning and afternoon at the Willow Ave. Presbyterian church at Joliet. Mrs. W. A. Willard, presided. After community singing led by Mrs. H. Thomas and the pledge to the flag Mrs. Norman Krapf welcomed the group. The response was given by Mrs. Guy Morgan. Mrs. Grant McCowan and Mrs. Walter Shumaker read the secretary's and treasurer's reports. Music for the morning program was provided by Mrs. W. Nelson, soprano accompanied by Mrs. M. Orbeson. A continuation of the histories of Will County Townships presented at the spring meeting was read by the following members: Frankfort, Mrs. Herbert Folkers; Homer, Mrs. Fred Padgett; Channahon, Mrs. E. Liberty; Manhattan, Mrs. Norman Krapf; Florence, Mrs. W. Quigley.

Mrs. Thomas introduced the speaker of the morning, Mrs. A. Kircher, a former Salvation Army officer and USO worker. Her message, Women Builders of the Church, was an inspiration to all and was very well received.

Luncheon was served in the church dining room, while C. W. Thomas entertained with selections on the solovox.

The afternoon program continued with group singing, repetition of the Americans creed and the roll call. About 120 members and guests were present from Channahon, Florence, Homer, Jackson, Joliet, Frankfort, Manhattan, Marley, Monee, New Lenox, Wesley and Plainfield.

At this time Mrs. Earl Rush announced the winners of the arrangements of vegetables entered by the various clubs. First prize was awarded to the Joliet 3-Way Club, second, and also special Honors to Frankfort, third to Florence and fourth to Monee. Many ribbons were also awarded to individual entries of flowers arranged in antique containers. Mrs. Henry Breidert and Mrs. Erich Bizer were responsible for Frankfort's unique entry. Miss June Armstrong, violinist, accompanied by David Larson at the piano entertained the group at the afternoon session. The speaker was Dr. Gayl Hufford superintendent of Joliet grade schools. The title of his talk was Soldiers Three.

Representing the Frankfort Woman's Club were Mesdames Lamarr Weathersbee, president; Breidert, Bizer, Chas. Pfaff, Raymond Hiroshige, E. Engelmann, Blanche Mitchell, J. Scott; H. Folkers, J. Clark, W. V. Hedges, Arthur Lambrecht.

FAMOUS EVANGELIST TO BE AT ROSELAND CHURCH

Dr. Gipsy Smith, internationally famous evangelist, will lead Bethany Reformed Church of Roseland, Chicago, in an evangelistic conference beginning Sunday, October 8 thru the 15th. Dr. Smith is 83 years of age and has been preaching the Word for 63 years. He will speak at the 10 o'clock morning worship service, at a special mass meeting at 2:30 in the afternoon, and also at the evening service which begins at 7:30 with an enthusiastic sing-spiration period. From 8 to 9 o'clock on Station WCFL 1000 Kc. his message will be broadcast thru all the midwestern states with a coverage of ten million population. The Bethany Church Choir will render the special music together with the Girls Trio and the Kings Messengers Male Quartette.

Tune in week days at 9:15 a.m. on station WAIT, 820 Kc. at which time a devotional program and Bible study is brought each morning by Dr. Hager. Bethany Church is located at 111th Place and Perry Ave., one block west of State.

MOKENA VILLAGE BOARD BUYS NEW PUMP

The Village of Mokena has purchased a new Deming turbine deep well pump with a pumping capacity of 100 gallons per minute to replace the present pump at the village pumping station, the old one having been in service for the past 25 years.

The new pump is automatic and electrically operated. The complete cost with labor and operating equipment will be approximately $1600.

It is expected the new pumping apparatus will be installed within the next two weeks.

Stanger Brothers Case Set Back

Attorneys Francis J. Loughran and Palmer DiGiulio Wednesday filed points in writing in the circuit court before Judge James V. Bartley in support of a motion to quash the indictment of murder against Louis and William Stanger of Mokena, accused in the fatal beating of Luther Scott of Mokena.

The defense also submitted a motion to reconsider a previous denial by the court of a motion for bail and a supplementary motion which raised the question of the sufficiency of the indictment.

At the request of the attorneys, the hearing on the motions was continued to such a time as the attorneys for the defense and for the people could agree. Judge Bartley pointed out that the court was ready to hear the motions now or at any time the attorneys wished, and if the motion to quash the indictment was overruled, he was ready to call a jury and try the case immediately.

NEPHEW OF MOKENA RESIDENT AWARDED BRONZE STAR MEDAL

The following article appeared in the Chicago Tribune, September 23, 1944.

—Washington, D. C., Sept. 22, 1944. The War Department today announced the award of the Bronze star medal to three Illinois infantry men. One is Capt. Frederick L. Lochbihler, 1315 S. Grove Ave., Berwyn Ill. who during attacks by his unit at Bougainville, July 15-30, 1944, exposed himself to enemy fire to coordinate the movement of advancing troops.

Capt. Lochbihler is a nephew of Mrs. McMahon and Mrs. Whitlark of Mokena and is well known in Frankfort.

GREEN GARDEN F MEN TO MEET OCTOBER 13

The Green Garden F men will hold their first meeting of the season at Town Hall Friday evening, October 13. Following the business session, cards will provide entertainment for members and their wives. The group will meet the second Friday evening of each month.

4H CLUB PRESENTS ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM

The Happy Hustlers 4H club presented its Achievement Day program at Frankfort school gym to a large audience, this week. After an introductory poem the girls assembled on the stage to sing the 4H hymn led by Eleanor Keuch. All members participated in the style review, modeling the dresses they made this summer.

Mrs. Alice Heron of the Will County Home Bureau gave a brief talk on 4H work. The leaders, Miss Betty Mark and Miss Lois Weitendorf spoke on the projects and activities of the club. Project honors were won at the leaders meeting held at Joliet recently by the following members: Betty Lou Oetter, Shirley Weichbrodt, Faye June Oetter, Wilma Mark, Eleanor Keuch, Doris Hinspeter and Harriet Baade. Wilma Mark was judged the county outstanding member with eight years of 4H work to her credit. The Happy Hustlers won 16 blue ribbons, 23 red ribbons and 7 white ribbons at the Joliet meeting. Lois Weitendorf, in speaking of the club's activities, mentioned the rally picnic, tours, salvage drive, bakery sale and display of servicemen's photographs. The club sponsors the mailing of the News-Bulletin to boys in service addressing about fifty wraps each week.

Carla Haugh gave a reading, Fish for Supper, and Faye June Oetter sang I'll Walk Alone and was accompanied at the piano by Wilma Mark. The Demonstration Way, was read by Betty Mark. Demonstrations on posture were given by Wilma Mark and Harriet Baade; a tossed salad by Shirley Weichbrodt and Betty Lou Oetter, and the remodeling of hats by Eleanor Keuch and Doris Hinspeter.

"4H Marches in the Victory Parade", a pageant, was presented by the girls depicting good health exercises, victory gardening, the purchasing of war bonds, salvage drives remodeling of clothes, canning, home tasks and Red Cross activities. Eleanor Keuch sang Angels of Mercy, as the climax of the pageant. The 4H pledge was repeated by the girls who then sang the Star Spangled Banner and the service songs. The program was concluded with a candle lighting ceremony and the singing of Taps. Harriet Baade, president, presented the leaders with gifts. Posters, canned goods and clothing were exhibited.

FOOTBALL GAME AT TINLEY THIS SUNDAY

The Tinley Park TNT Football team will play the Midlothian football team at Tinley Park Sunday afternoon October 8 at 2 o'clock. Everyone is urged to attend.

Triplets Born To Alpine Family

Triplet boys were born Monday in Elmhurst Community hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Bayer of 202 S. 5th Ave., Maywood. Two of the boys, who weighed 6, 5, and 4 pounds, were placed in the incubator. Their mother is 22 years old.

This is of interest to this territory as Mr. Bayer and his brother Charles, made their home with Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sayers, Wolf Rd., for several years, following the death of their mother. After Rudolph and his wife Winifred were married they continued to live with the Sayers until this spring when they moved to Maywood. Mr. Bayer is employed by the Taylor Forge & Pipe Works in Cicero. Charles is in the armed forces being a coast guard in the east.

MOKENA GIRL QUIETLY MARRIED

Miss Adelaide Lauffer, daughter of Mrs. Florence Steele, Mokena and Mr. Stanley Piper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Piper of Grant Park, were united in marriage by Rev. Manly Mumford in his home, at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, September 30, the double ring ceremony being used.

The bride wore a light blue crepe suit with brown hat and accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

Miss Lydia Baudry, bridesmaid, wore a British tan suit with green accessories and a corsage of tea roses and baby mums. The groom was attended by his brother Mr. Ervin Piper.

Following the wedding ceremony, a dinner was served in the home of the bride's mother to the wedding party. Mr. and Mrs. Piper left that evening for their home on a farm near Monee.

FARM BUREAU DEFEATS TINLEY PARK 7-3

Farm Bureau defeats Tinley Park 7-3 Sunday October 1, behind the 10 hit pitching of Harold Schuldt.

This was the final in a four game series. The second game was tied in 17 innings. Farm Bureau won the series 2 games to Tinley's 1. Next Sunday, October 8, Tinley Park travels to Orland Park to play a return game. Tinley won the first game of this two game series 16-3. This is the final game of the season.

RUMMAGE SALE AT TINLEY CHURCH OCTOBER 12

Big doings at the Tinley Park Methodist church on Thursday, Oct. 12. In the afternoon starting at 2 p.m. an old fashioned rummage sale will be held. This will be continued into the evening when starting at 5 p.m. a fried fish dinner will be served until 8 p.m. Of course those coming early will get their choice of the articles offered. Posters are up giving the complete menu on the fish dinner. Don't forget the date Thursday, October 12.

WILL HOLD HARVEST FESTIVAL AT TINLEY OCT. 14

Next Saturday is the big night at the Saenger Hall in Tinley Park when the 4th annual Harvest Festival will be held. Farmers and gardeners are invited to bring in their best specimens of vegetables, fruits, etc., to be exhibited. Later in the evening judges will pass on the exhibits and prizes will be awarded.

One of the high lights of the evening will be the awarding of a choice 500 pound steer as a prize.

There will be dancing with the Sunny orchestra furnishing the music.

Another feature will be a poultry bazaar.

Plenty of eats and drinks. Every one invited.

APPROPRIATE SUPPORT GIVEN

The Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW Mokena, sincerely wish to thank all for their help in making our card party of September 30 a success. We appreciate the cash donations our friends sent in. The proceeds of this party are being used for the boys Christmas boxes.

Deceased Bandmaster Resided Near Mokena In Youth

A. R. McAllister, 63, founder and director of the Joliet Township High School band, died Saturday afternoon in St. Joseph's hospital, Joliet of a heart ailment. He had been ill two months.

Mr. McAllister who joined the Joliet Township high faculty as a manual training instructor, founded the band 30 years ago. It has permanent possession of the National School Band association's grand trophy, having won it three consecutive times.

The band's trophy gallery is packed with silver and gold mementoes of its success. In 1938, Ferde Grofe chose the Joliet band to play the world premiere of his band arrangement of George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" at the 9th Chicago and Music Festival in Soldier's Field.

Tho he never graduated from a school of music, Mr. McAllister's success was recognized by John Philip Sousa, Goldman and other leaders of the band world who became his friends and advisers.

Funeral services attended by 1500 people were held Tuesday afternoon from the Ottawa Street Methodist church in Joliet.

In his boyhood days Mr. McAllister resided with his parents on the Maue farm northeast of Mokena. Elmer Cooper, Mokena garageman, was a school mate of Mr. McAllister at that time.

Coopers Grove Luth. Church Scene of Pretty Autumn Wedding

A very pretty wedding took place in St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church at Cooper's Grove, Saturday evening September 30 at 7:30 o'clock, when Miss Mildred Vogt, daughter of Mr. Carl Vogt of Tinley Park, became the bride of Mr. Marvin Cappel of Mokena, son of Mr. Albert Cappel, also of Mokena.

The bride wore the traditional white satin gown with long sleeves tapered at the wrist and having a long train. Her veil was full length which was attached to a tiara of pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Wesley Cappel of Mokena served his brother as best man. Both wore dark blue suits.

The matron of honor was Miss Laura Twietmeyer, sister of the bride and the bridesmaids were: Sylvia Butzer, Alice Herzke, Clara Steinborn and Laura Wille. Their gowns were identical, being of white satin bodice with a sweetheart neckline and skirts of net with deep dusty rose bows matching their tiaras. Their bouquets were white mums and rose glads.

As the bride entered the church, on the arm of her father, the little flower girl, Marilyn Cooper of Mokena, cousin of the groom, preceded them and gently dropped rose petals in their path. Her dress and tiara were white and similar to the bridesmaid's.

The pastor of the church, Rev. H. F. Meyer officiated.

During the service, Mrs. H. F. Meyer sang, "The Lord Is My Shepherd", and "O Perfect Love", accompanied at the organ by Edward Shuricht.

A wedding dinner and reception was held in the home of the bride's father, following the ceremony. About sixty-five guests attended.

The bridal couple received many lovely gifts. They left that same evening on a short wedding trip.

MOKENA PTA HOLDS FIRST MEETING OF NEW YEAR

The Mokena PTA held their first monthly meeting of the current year Tuesday evening and were agreeably surprised by the large attendance.

Our own "Home Town" orchestra, composed of Donna Williams, Doris Yunker, Joanne Marti, Marcia Larson, Jack Martie, Chas. Egerton and Willis Schiek played a few selections which were thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were served after the meeting with the Board members acting as hosts, and a pleasant "get acquainted" hour was enjoyed by all present.

NOV. 14 DATE OF WILL CO. RNA CONVENTION

November 14 is the date set for the annual Will County convention of Royal Neighbors of America. Camp Stevenson of Joliet will be hostess. Frankfort Camp 6036, has been invited to exemplify the work of the Graces at the afternoon school of instruction. The meeting will continue in the evening.

VIOLETS BLOOMING IN MOKENA SAYS RESIDENT

Mrs. Whitlark of Mokena reports that violets are blooming again in her yard in Mokena.

Lt. B. Needham Missing In France Since Sept. 13

Mr and Mrs. Berle Needham of Mokena received a telegram Saturday morning from their daughter in law, Mrs. Dorothy Needham residing in Millbrae, Calif., conveying the news that their son 2nd Lt. Berle Needham was reported missing in action in France since September 13th according to a telegram from the Secretary of War to Mrs. Needham. The message from the Secretary of War further stated if any more details become available Mrs. Needham will be notified.

Lt. Needham last visited with his parents in Mokena the forepart of the summer and shortly afterward was sent overseas. He was evidently in the same action as was Lt. Robert W. Funk of Tinley Park who was also reported missing since September 13th.

Lt. Needham is the second Mokena boy reported missing. Oliver Lauffer was reported missing in air action over Germany over a year ago and no further news about him has been received.

G. M. DEALERS TO HOLD BANQUET

The members of the Joliet General Motors Club will sponsor a dinner on Wednesday, October 11 at the Louis Joliet Hotel.

The General Motors Club is a group of GM dealers and divisional men in this area. They get together at intervals of three or four months for an informal program of motion pictures, talks and discussion.

Occasionally the program which is arranged is of special interest to community leaders, as well as to the regular members, and this is especially true of the program for the forthcoming meeting.

Although Victory will continue to be the paramount business until the last shot is fired in this war, the motion picture feature of the program for this meeting will sketch the outlines of post war problems which will face industry, as General Motors sees them. The program also will attempt to answer some of the questions in the minds of men and women about post-war cars and their production.

ORLAND CHURCH TO HOLD FESTIVAL

The Fall Festival and Bazaar sponsored by the ladies of Orland church will be held Sunday, October 8 on the Parish grounds.

A chicken dinner will be served at 12 noon until 3 pm. Supper will be served from 6 to 7:30 pm. Everyone in the community is invited to attend.

OCCUPATION OF REICH

The war department isn't advertising the details but it has completed plans for the occupation of Germany by American forces.

The Allies have agreed the occupation should be shared in roughly equal numbers by U. S., British and Soviet forces. This will permit the return to the U. S. A. of a maximum number of units, will also free thousands of trained men if necessary for polishing off the war against Japan.

The chief problem involved is getting enough transports to rush the men home, plus sorting out those entitled to go home first. The latter will be decided by the army's "point demobilization system," and millions of forms for computing each GI's service are being printed and shipped overseas.

In 1918, American soldiers in France, deliriously overjoyed at victory, almost threw away their weapons, went wild for weeks and months. Officers, equally happy, suspended regulations, and permitted their men to overrun the big cities of France, having a gay time.

After this armistice, things will be different. The whole plan has been charted to the last detail. Discipline will be maintained, but the war department demobilization plan calls for the elimination of all "harrassing details not essential to the health and welfare of the troops."

GI Tours of Europe.

Most of the troops will be excused from drill, will be given ample opportunity to see Europe while awaiting transports for home. Men who desire it will be taken on tours of the continent under army auspices.

A "Guided Tours of Europe" program is being worked out as a result of the experience, after the last war, of American doughboys who returned home having seen only the battle fronts plus the gay side of Paris. This time officials are anxious to let the boys learn something more of the people and places they have been fighting for.

Some GIs will be given an opportunity to go to school in Europe, attend universities such as the Sorbonne, Oxford, and Cambridge. The army will also organize classes for the younger GIs who want to pick up their studies during the brief period after the armistice before they return home.

The war department recognizes it will be no easy job to get the army home all at once. However, both have emphasized the need for speeding discharges and, with no submarine warfare to cope with and no necessity for sailing in slow convoys, officials are confident that all except the army of occupation in Germany will be back within a few months.

Note—Greatest complaint against the army point system is that it makes no allowance for men over 35, who apparently have to sweat it out until the end of the Japanese war, unless the war department makes new allowances for them.

INSIDE GERMANY

Allied leaders, after surveying effects of intelligence work inside the Reich, are now finally convinced there is no chance of an honest anti-Hitler revolt by the German people. What's more, efforts to spawn a pro-Allied underground in Germany have met with failure.

Principal reason is that the Gestapo controls everything — including the army hierarchy. The communist underground has been completely liquidated; also all remnants of the socialist and social-democratic parties.

The only real hope Allied military leaders have is that the 11 million slave laborers brought to Germany by Hitler from Poland, Russia, France, Belgium, Holland and Norway, will conduct an increasing campaign of sabotage, perhaps giving heart to large groups of Germans to join them.

A year ago, Hitler and his henchmen kicked these slave laborers around at will, fed them poorly, worked them brutally under a whip lash. Of late, this pressure has been eased. In some instances, Nazis have reportedly given special treatment to their captives on the chance that they themselves will not be too badly punished by the Allies when German falls.

It is now even possible for a few of these captives to escape from Germany — for a price in foreign money — as petty Nazi police try to accumulate enough foreign currency to live safely during the Allied occupation.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Whenever Sen. Bennett Clark of Missouri (soon to be an ex) meets Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer, he says: "I should hate you — but I can't." . . . He refers to the fact that, at the Baltimore Democratic convention of 1912, A. Mitchell Palmer received a telegram from Woodrow Wilson, then governor of New Jersey, releasing his delegates to Bennett's father, Speaker Champ Clark. But Palmer refused to show any one the telegram and, in the end, Wilson, not Clark, was nominated.

Holland Airborne Invaders

British paratroopers in a C-47 transport plane as they started on the journey which took them far behind the German lines in Holland during the airborne invasion of the low country. They advanced about 30 miles in five hours after landing, met with strong opposition, including a German trap, and were not able to contact their main lines.

American Tanks in Germany

American infantrymen run behind a tank for the cover of an embankment as the troops move into another town inside Germany. Tank units were utilized to give support to the rapidly advancing doughboys in their race into the interior of Germany. During the early stages, little opposition was met on the part of civilians.

New Airborne Army Formed

Lieut. Gen. L. H. Brereton, U. S. army (insert), has been appointed commander of the First Allied airborne army. Photo shows him as airborne invasion of Holland and Germany was being planned. His troops (above) are shown as they were landing behind the German lines during their recent invasion of Nazi strong positions.

Rocket Ship Opens Fire

This new type rocket ship opens the beach defenses as the first wave prepares to go ashore during the invasion of Morotai island. Rockets were released in showers as smoke billowed over the side to hide the vessel. The effect was entirely satisfactory to naval operators and permitted the marines to land without meeting serious opposition and with few American casualties resulting.

Brazilians in Italy

Brig. Gen. Euclides Zenobio da Costa, field commander of the Brazilian Expeditionary force in Italy (kneeling), with some of his staff officers at a Brazilian automatic rifle post in Italy. They have been giving a good account of themselves.

Banker Railroader

Realizing a life's ambition to be a railroad man, Russell L. Hoak of Elkhart, Ind., banker, arrives at the Englewood station, ending his first run from Elkhart as a brakeman on the New York Central. He is serving only part time.

Poor Weeping Adolf

Members of the Belgian "White army" laughingly point to a poster of a weeping Adolf Hitler which is displayed in the window of their headquarters in the now liberated city of Liege, Belgium. Needless to say the poster was not there during German occupancy.

Firing in Germany

A battery of American 155 mm. self-propelled guns mounted on a Sherman tank chassis fire into the village of Biltheim, Germany, which is six kilometers southwest of Aachen on the Liege-Aachen road.

JESUS' PROGRAM FOR MEETING LIFE'S PROBLEMS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 4:1-4; 6:31-34; Luke 4:16-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.—Matthew 4:4.

Problems, sorrows, needs, anxieties—how they press in on mankind from every direction. What is he to do about them? He cannot meet them in his own strength. They worry him almost to the point of distraction. What shall he do?

There is just one answer, and it is blessedly simple and completely satisfying. Take your burdens to the Lord and leave them there! Cast all your care upon Him, for He careth for you (1 Pet. 5:7).

From the teachings of Jesus our lesson tells us why and how we may do this. Let us not miss its glorious—and convicting—message.

I. We Can Overcome Temptation Through Christ Matt. (4:1-4).

Temptation is the common lot of all mankind (1 Cor. 10:13). The strongest and most noble of men are subject to it. Angels were tempted, and our scripture reveals that even Jesus was tempted. We recognize that Jesus was tempted as the Messiah (vv. 3, 6) and as one without sin (Heb. 4:15), but it is also true that He was tempted in all points as we are, apart from sin, and that we may learn from His temptation how we may meet and be the victors over temptation.

We learn of our Lord that temptations may be victoriously overcome—

1. By the right use of Scripture. If Jesus needed that weapon, how can we do without it? But how can we use Scripture if we do not study it and hide it in our hearts?

2. By dependence on God. Every Scripture used by Jesus honored God. We cannot fight Satan in our own strength. To attempt to do so is to fail utterly. The real victory for the Christian is to bring Satan back to the cross where Christ won a decisive victory over him.

3. By denouncing Satan. Jesus sent him on his way. We may do the same in Jesus' name. It is always a serious error to try to argue with Satan or to engage in any discussion with him. Let us meet him with Scripture and say "Get thee hence."

II. We Can Learn to Trust God for our Daily Needs (Matt. 6:31-34).

Some want to be rich. Their folly is made clear in verses 19-24. But then there are some who while not wanting to be rich, are in constant anxiety about food and raiment for the morrow.

What is the answer of the Lord Jesus? Consider the birds. They are not able to work, nor are they able to pray, but God feeds them. Consider the glory of the flowers of the fields, for not even a king can dress himself in such beauty. "Are ye not much better than they?" (v. 26).

"As far as known, no bird ever tried to build more nests than its neighbors; no fox ever fretted because it had only one hole in which to hide; no squirrel ever died of anxiety lest he should not lay up enough nuts for two winters instead of one; and no dog ever lost any sleep over the fact that he did not have enough bones laid aside for his declining years" (Public Health service).

Proper forethought is good and right, for we are intelligent beings, but anxiety about our daily needs is always dishonoring to God.

Yes, says someone that's all very well, but how about the future? Well, why should we fret about that? It is in God's hands, and even if it were in our hands, what could we do about it? Even tomorrow, with its needs and its blessings, with its joy and its sorrows, is not yet here, and when it does come, there will be God's gracious provision for each passing hour.

III. We Can Follow Christ in Sacrificial Service (Luke 4:16-21).

Let us be clear at once that we cannot do what Christ did, for He is the Son of God. He had a special ministry to perform as the Messiah. But we may learn much from this story.

Jesus began His ministry among His own people even though He knew of their unbelief. He used the Word of God as the background for His calling. He recognized the special need of the poor and the suffering, and especially of those who were bruised and broken by sin.

In all these things we may follow His example. Let us declare the truth to those nearest to us, even if they do reject it. Let us look to God's Word for our call and our commission—different from that of Jesus, but nevertheless from God and for His glory.

Then, too, let us learn of Him that we are to serve those who are most needy and possibly neglected, serving their physical needs, but above all bringing to them the light of God's redeeming grace.

Here is light from the Lord on our problems of sin, sorrow, supply and service.

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

MR. WINKLE GOES TO WAR

By THEODORE PRATT

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Forty-four-year-old Wilbert Winkle, who operates a repair shop in the alley back of his home, is notified by his draft board that he is in I-A. He breaks the bad news to his domineering wife, Amy, who becomes suddenly tender. Mr. Winkle is sent to Camp Squibb, where, after graduating from Motor Mechanics school, he leaves for home on a furlough. Amy hardly knows him, and his dog barks at him furiously. Mr. Winkle and his friend, Mr. Tinker, soon find themselves on the high seas in a huge convoy. They land on the island of Talizo and report at one of the repair shops. Some of their friends are also on the island. There is a bad mist, that might screen Japs.

CHAPTER XII

Mr. Winkle pulled his steel helmet more securely on his head and pressed on the accelerator of the car.

The jeep shot off the road and along the sand trail leading to the beach. The command car stood where it had been left, in a partially cleared space enclosed by low palms. Mr. Winkle stopped alongside it.

As they got out, he glanced at the tent, set at one side among the trees. Ordinarily, the off-duty members of the machine-gun crew would be loitering or sleeping there. It was empty.

Up on the low ridge, fifty feet away, a helmeted head appeared above the sand. It was the Alphabet. Recognizing them, he waved briefly and then disappeared.

"It ain't like him," Mr. Tinker observed, "not to be hospitable to his friends."

Mr. Winkle took their tools from the back seat of the jeep. His hands shook a little. He pulled his helmet still more securely over his head and said, "We'd better get to work."

"We can take a minute," Mr. Tinker said, "to see what's going on up there."

Reluctantly, Mr. Winkle followed him to the ridge.

They didn't receive a very warm welcome. "If you got to come here," Sergeant Czeideskrowski snapped, "get down in."

They scrambled below ground level, hunching themselves into the fox hole, crowding Freddie, Jack, and the other men who sat listening attentively or kneeled to stare out over the ocean.

The jeep shot off the road and along the sand trail.

Freddie, at the machine gun, whose snout pointed across the beach, greeted them, "Maybe you're just in time for the performance."

The Alphabet picked up the field telephone. He identified his post, listened for a moment and then said, "Yes, sir. . . . No, sir, it hasn't lifted yet."

He put the instrument down and told his visitors, "That was your boss. He wanted to know if you got here. Like you heard, I didn't give away you being with us, but you better get back where you belong and beat it as soon as you're through."

They went, Mr. Winkle with alacrity and Mr. Tinker with regret.

From out over the sea there came a sudden roar. Guns began to spit virtually at the same instant.

"Duck!" yelled Mr. Winkle. He dropped the wrench he was holding and dived under the command car.

Lying there, his heart beating so fast it seemed to equal the rapid firing of the guns, he expected Mr. Tinker to join him.

Instead, he heard the quick firing of a Garand. He could see Mr. Tinker's feet and part of his legs, braced to take up the shock from the gun.

The plane came over. It appeared to know exactly where to come. The firing stopped.

Mr. Winkle opened his eyes. Again he saw Mr. Tinker, who was now standing halfway to the ridge. He was reloading his rifle and looking malevolently at the sky.

The plane came back.

Once more it spit heavy death from its nose, and lighter, more gentle death from its wings. Mr. Tinker fired right back at it.

It wasn't until a moment after the plane had gone again, out over the ocean, that Mr. Tinker's arms dropped and the rifle slid from his hands.

His voice choked and gurgled when he called, "Pop . . . Hey Pop . . ."

Then he crumpled, like something stiff gone soft, folding up and sinking to the ground.

Mr. Winkle, watching this from beneath the command car, couldn't believe at first that it was actual. It had happened too quickly, too much without warning to be any different from field tactics in which picked men simulated those hit when the planes came over.

Then he realized that the plane hadn't been a friendly one.

He crawled out from beneath the car and got to his feet. His legs seemed to function automatically, without any volition on his part, as he made his way to Mr. Tinker.

The blood spreading over Mr. Tinker's chest made him sick and weak. He bent and touched him, whispering his name. But Mr. Tinker didn't answer.

Mr. Winkle realized something else. When the plane went over the second time the Alphabet's machine gun hadn't fired.

From the fox hole now there came no movement. All about there was silence.

He ran to the ridge. He arrived breathing hard, not from exertion, but from excitement. He gasped at what he saw.

One of the shells from the plane's cannon had exploded in the fox hole. The bodies of the men lay about, some of them half buried. Freddie was sprawled over the gun, as if protecting it. Sergeant Czeideskrowski was on his back, his open eyes staring straight up at the burning sun and not blinking. In a tangled pile, Mr. Winkle caught sight of the side of Jack's still face.

A single thought ran through him repeatedly. How will I ever tell the Pettigrews? He asked himself. How will I ever tell the Pettigrews?

The sound of surging water made him turn his head.

Out of the mist had come a flat-nosed Japanese assault boat.

Behind it, but somewhat off to either side, were two more.

Mr. Winkle sank to his knees, both to get out of sight and because his legs wouldn't hold him up any more.

After a moment, he knew that he must do something. He realized that the whole position on Talizo might be lost if the men in those assault boats ever landed and infiltrated through the jungle.

He found himself scrabbling about in the sand of the fox hole for the field phone. It wasn't in sight.

He saw the Signal Corps wire leading up out of the hole. He grabbed it, and started pulling on it.

A broken piece of the shattered phone came into his hands.

He dropped it from nerveless fingers.

Helplessly, Mr. Winkle watched the leading assault boat come on.

Now it was less than a hundred yards from the beach.

He looked back at the jeep. Unless the bullet holes through its windshield meant more than they appeared to, the car would still run. He could get back in it to give the alarm at the next post.

But by that time, the Japs would have effected their landing.

Mr. Winkle wished that it was not he who had been placed in this position. He wanted, fervently, for it to be another man, a fighter, a killer, a younger, a different, a better man than he. It flashed through his mind that it had been a mistake to draft and make a soldier out of a mouse. He felt guilty at not having resigned from the Army. A different man here now, in his place, would have known what to do.

Then Mr. Winkle knew what to do.

It occurred to him that he hadn't thought of himself, of his own safety, when considering getting away in the jeep. He had thought only to give the warning of what was happening.

Also, he saw Mr. Tinker lying sprawled out there on the ground. He remembered how he had ducked under the command car while Mr. Tinker fired his rifle. The recollection made him feel craven, especially when now Mr. Tinker would never get his Jap.

He decided that he must get him for Mr. Tinker.

There were the Alphabet, Freddie, Jack, and the other men to think about, too. It infuriated him that Sergeant Czeideskrowski lay dead. It made him see red to think that after Freddie had been made into a decent person, he had been killed. His brain seared with a hot flame at the thought of Jack.

It seemed to be the most natural thing in the world to pull Freddie's body from the gun. Swiftly, he examined it. The gun was intact. It needed only a new belt of ammunition.

He clawed about in the sand and among the bodies for an ammunition box. He stepped on soft flesh and didn't mind it.

Digging furiously, he found what he wanted. He stripped the nearly spent belt from the gun, and inserted a fresh one.

As he worked he knew how good and wise it was that he had been trained to operate a machine gun. He wished that he was better at it. But a rising surge of confidence made him sure he would be good enough.

The first boat was nearly at the shore. Mr. Winkle sighted the gun for the spot he figured the men would be when they stepped out. That was what he had been taught.

He still had a moment. He employed it by coolly taking off his glasses and wiping them dry with his handkerchief. He wiped his face and neck, both of which streamed with sweat.

He glanced about.

This was where he would die.

He had often wondered in what circumstances and in what locality it would occur. Now he knew. It wasn't such a bad place. He saw it almost for the first time, the waving palm trees, the flowering hibiscus.

He liked it.

It was romantic. Amy, he thought, would be glad to know it was such an attractive place.

It occurred to him that for the first time in his life he wasn't afraid to die. He even exulted in it. He heard his voice. He was laughing. He felt released from hard, painful bonds. He knew that, at last, Wilbert George Winkle, in the flesh and not in a newspaper headline, was proud to fight.

He turned back to the gun. It was nearly time.

The assault boat beached in shallow water. Men started jumping out and splashing through the water. He could see their faces, brown, slant-eyed, expressionless. Mr. Winkle let them all get out. Then, carefully sighting, he squeezed the trigger.

There was a snap and a jerk.

The gun jammed without firing.

Frantically, he worked at the gun. One finger caught in the mechanism. He tore it away. Blood spurted, but he paid no attention. He kept picking at the jammed cartridge. Finally he got it out, and a new one in the firing chamber, the gun prepared properly.

Five men had run ahead, off to one side. Mr. Winkle swung his gun around, concentrating on them first. This time the gun fired. He was astonished to see the men fall. He wasn't sure if one of them got away.

He swung the gun back, spitting vengeance at the larger group. As the bullets spat out from under his hands, a still new and greater world opened before him.

This was what he had lived for. Life had a meaning and a purpose of which he had never dreamed.

He sprayed the milling men down there.

He had a mad, blind desire to annihilate and destroy the enemy. It seemed like a torrent pent up in him for years and spilling out in one overwhelming rush.

He sprayed it on the milling men down there. That burst was for Jack. That one was for Freddie.

This long one for Mr. Tinker. Now one for the Alphabet. Still more for the other men. Wilbert Winkle, who operates The Fixit Shop, first married selectee in the 38 to 45 draft-age group to be called, is killing these enemies of his country. He is anxious to defend the four freedoms. It's worth any sacrifice, if need be, his very life.

Wilbert Winkle wanted more enemies to kill when all these were gone, when no one stood on his feet in the writhing, shrieking mass on the wet sand.

He saw more at the approach of the other two boats. Quite calmly, without excitement of any kind, and not realizing he was following Army procedure painstakingly taught him, he inserted another fresh belt of ammunition.

Instinctively, as if something told him to, he looked behind him, over the edge of the fox hole.

A Jap officer was stealing his way toward him. He was the one who had got away from the group of five. The swarthy little man was between the cars and the body of Mr. Tinker.

Mr. Winkle grabbed the nearest rifle. He swung it into position to fire, resting it on the edge of the fox hole.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Benson had as their guests over the week end, their nephew, Seaman 2-c, Martin E. Johnson of New York and two of his buddies, who are students at the Wright Jr., College at Chicago. Also Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Benson and children of Rockford. This was the first time Seaman Johnson and his Mokena relatives had met and it is needless to say an enjoyable time was had.

Mr. James Tilsy of Homer has purchased the farm of Mrs. Emil Capple just east of Mokena.

Mrs. John Martin spent Tuesday in Chicago with friends.

Mrs. Russel Stankus and Mrs. Oscar Smith spent the week end with the former's brother at Granville, Ill.

Mrs. Anna Hall, mother of Arthur Hall celebrated her 91st birthday Tuesday. Her many friends in Mokena helped to make it a happy day, by sending cards, bringing gifts and stopping to visit awhile.

Grandma Hall is enjoying good health and enjoys reading and visiting even tho her hearing is not very good. She and Mr. Arthur Hall want to thank every one for their thoughtfulness shown to her and the many kind words, gifts and cards. They both appreciate every kind act very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spiess and daughter Elaine and Miss Carol Rhein left yesterday for Camp Robertson, Ark., to spend a few days with the former's son, Pvt. Gordon Spiess who is in training there. They expect to return Monday.

Mrs. N. F. Heiman entertained at dinner in her home Sunday Sept. 24, in honor of Mr. Heiman's birthday. Guests were his cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. The Mokena Oilers swept three games from the Paperhangers to extend their winning streak to 8 straight and a two game lead over the second place Smokers. The Gas House gang are travelling at a fast pace as they have not lost a series to the 4 teams played so far and have only the Bankers left to play in the first round to make a clean sweep.

The Smokers were able to keep pace with the Oilers as they won 3 games from last years champion V-Eighters who had an off night. Looks like if Gus Braun's cigars hold out, the Smokers will stay out of the cellar.

The Bankers took 2 games from the Robins to stay in striking distance of the first place Oilers who they roll next week. The Bankers are again displaying a powerful lineup this season and they are just beginning to roll.

Dear Editor: I really don't know if I should blame it on to negligence or the necessary time devoted to our work the past few months, but the fact still remains that I haven't written to "thank" and also remind you of the splendid job you and staff are doing in keeping us informed as to the prevailing conditions existing at home.

Words of praise must certainly also be directed to "The Women's Service Club"; V.F.W.; and "Ladies Aid" of the Lutheran Church for their kind acts and deeds.

This afternoon the Doc was making his regular inspection of wounds and after looking at my leg he remarked, "You certainly heal fast, it's coming along very nicely. I would even take a chance on sewing your head back on." But outside of being authorities on jokes and wise cracks, the army medical officers have performed their job to perfection. I hope this hasn't proved too boring to you and in conclusion I would like to say "hello" to all my friends and relatives.

Sincerely, Kurt Hellmuth.

WOMEN'S SERVICE CLUB NEWS
By Mrs. Leslie Clark

At the regular meeting of the Mokena Women's Service Club Monday evening, various articles for the Christmas boxes were wrapped for packing. By this time next week, all overseas packages should be well on their way. If you have not already done so, please send in your Servicemen's latest address, so that we will receive his package on time. We must have your fullest co-operation.

The Fall Festival that was held at Robinson's Ball field several weeks ago, was a grand success. From Mr. Chas. Burkhardt, president of the Men's Bowling League, we have received a check in the amount of $618.59 which was the ENTIRE net proceeds for the three days. To Mr. Fred Robinson and to the Men's Bowling League, our sincere and heartfelt thanks. We know it took a great deal of time and effort on the part of everyone to make the festival the grand success that it was. You have helped us tremendously. Again thanks a million.

We also gratefully acknowledge the following contributions: Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Benson $5.00; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sizer, $4.00; Mrs. Emma Dupra, $1.00.

Our treasurer, Mrs. Mildred McMillan is recovering in Silver Cross hospital from a major operation performed last Monday. Her husband, Fireman 1-c Dave McMillan, spent a few days emergency leave with her.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"It sounds almost like a miracle, Judge... how did we ever do it?"

"American industry did it, Sally. When the Japs conquered the chief natural rubber producing centers of the world they thought they had dealt a death blow to our war effort. But, in less than two years, we are producing enough synthetic rubber in this country to supply all our military and essential civilian requirements.

"Our rubber experts knew how to make it but the most practical process at the time required huge amounts of industrial alcohol... far beyond the already overtaxed capacity of our industrial alcohol plants. So, overnight, our country's beverage distillers stopped making whiskey and produced hundreds of millions of gallons of the vitally needed alcohol.

"As a matter of fact, Sally, a high government official said recently... synthetic rubber is from 6 to 9 months ahead of where it could have been if alcohol had not been available for butadiene production."

"We were really fortunate, weren't we Judge, to have a beverage distilling industry in existence... able to help perform this great wartime miracle!"

Mrs. Roy Minger was honored at a party and shower last Wednesday evening in the home of her cousin Mrs. Dallas Meyer, 12 Union St., Joliet. The evening was spent in playing buncos and visiting. Prizes for the buncos games were awarded to each guest and a guest prize was given to Mrs. Minger. Home decorations were beautiful in pink and blue, and large bouquets of Mums were placed thru out the home. A two course incheon was served. Two very pretty stork decorations stood at either end of the dining table and the centerpiece was made of a baby bottle holding a small bouquet of baby mums. The pink and blue napkins were folded to make small baby shirts and diapers, which were used as place cards at each place. Mrs. Meyer was assisted by her mother Mrs. Wm. O'Reilly and Mrs. Raymond Stanton. The honored guest was presented many lovely gifts from a table that was centered with a large stork, her gifts surrounding it. Guests were: Mrs. Evelyn Schuster, and Mrs. Mary Rose Scholtes of Chicago; Mrs. Catherine Rimke and Mrs. Clara Walsh of Channahon, Mrs. Wish Walsh, Miss Beatrice Walsh, Mrs. Dolores Anderson, Mrs. Lillian Walsh, Miss Nancy Walsh, Mrs. Jule Walsh of New Lenox; Mrs. Alice Walsh, Mrs. Vernice Walsh, Miss Blanche Walsh, Mrs. Corrine Walsh, Mrs. Rose Walsh, Mrs. Audrey Murphy, Mrs. Helen Walsh, Mrs. Margaret O'Reilly, Mrs. Catherine Meyer, Mrs. Doris Mae Walsh, Mrs. Ray Stanton, Mrs. Alburn Smith and Mrs. Donald Smith, of Joliet.

The Annual Harvest Home Festival will be held in the Grace Episcopal church October 8, with services at 11 o'clock followed by a covered dish luncheon in the dining room on the camp grounds.

Guests were their daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Batson and co-workers from the Gerlach Barklow Co. in Joliet, Mrs. Marie Moylan, Lillian Knowles, Lorraine Gossen and Pauline Suca. Later in the evening they went to the home of Mrs. Ceward Batson Sr., where they visited and were served refreshments.

Miss Joyce Gobush celebrated her 8th birthday at a party in her home last Friday afternoon. There were 23 guests present. Games and a treasure hunt were enjoyed and each guest received a prize. Decorations were in pink and white. The table was decorated with pink and white streamers and centered with a birthday cake. Favors decorated each place at the table. Many nice gifts were presented to Joyce. Mrs. Gobush was assisted by Mrs. Clarence Batson. Guests were: Leona Joy Bormet, Mary Helen Staley, Louise Peterson, Joan Ridgeway, Ardis and Lois Batson, Barbara Hill, Patsy Jay, Florence and Hester Cruise, Virginia Donaldson, Mary Jean Hunt, Feril Redman, Carole and Sonja Hallgren, Ann Theresa Zusag, Diane Wondresak, Gail and Lynn Heptig, Gloria McCoy, Marilyn McCoy and Carlene Flynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Zellar and sons of Seneca, Ill. visited here Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. John Tarrant and family.

Mrs. Eleanor Brownlee entertained in her home Thursday afternoon at a Missionary Tea. Mrs. Joseph Brisbane, missionary chairman led the meeting. The meeting was opened with a sacred song service led by Mrs. Herbert Duerr. Mrs. J. S. Randall led the devotions, and Mrs. Margaret Papke sang a solo, Rose of My Heart, which she dedicated to Mrs. Brisbane who is leaving October 15 for her new home in Carbondale, Ill.

The meeting was dismissed with a prayer given by Mrs. A. W. Otis. On behalf of the society, Mrs. Dean Bright presented Mrs. Brisbane with a gift. Refreshments were served buffet style with Mrs. Mary Hanson presiding at the coffee urn. Mrs. Brownlee was assisted by her sister Mrs. Bright.

A Halloween party will be the feature of the PTA meeting to be held in the school auditorium Tuesday evening October 10 at 7:45 pm. Games are being planned by the committee and prizes will be given for the best costume. The 8th grade mothers will be hostesses.

Mrs. Arthur Rowsell and children and Mrs. Ted Rowsell and children visited Friday in Forest Park with Mrs. Paul Rowsell and Mrs. Sarah Rowsell. They also visited with Paul Rowsell, who is confined to the Western Suburban hospital following an accident on the Lake St. L in Chicago where he is employed.

W.A.I.T. Martha Koch of the San Bernardino, California Air Base visited here last week with her sister and brother in law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rowsell and family.

The WSCS of the Methodist church will hold its annual fall bazaar and chicken supper October 5 in the dining hall on the camp grounds. Serving will begin at 5:30 and continue until all are served. Mrs. Leslie Brownlee and her committee will be in charge of the supper. Other booths where various articles will be on sale are: Mystery, Pantry, Candy, Fancy work and Apron.

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Walker and family entertained a group of 25 relatives at a 6 o'clock dinner in their home recently honoring Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Roe Walker who were visiting here. Lt. Walker left by plane for San Francisco, Cal. for further assignment.

Mrs. Thora Rydberg, Mrs. Melda Reinhard and Mrs. Lottie Gougar entertained at the first meeting of the Woman's Club in the Rydberg home Wednesday afternoon with Mrs.

Laura Morris, president presiding. After the pledge to the flag was given, reports were read by the secretary Mrs. Betty Duerr and the treasurer Miss Bess Jones. Mrs. Ruby Gougar and Mrs. Rydberg were elected to fill two vacated offices in the club, president and vice president.

During the program which followed under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Papke, Miss Helen Francis gave brief previews and interesting excerpts of several best sellers. The selections reviewed included "History" by Charles and Mary Beard, "Leave Her to Heaven" by Ben Ames Williams and "Lie Down in Darkness" by R. H. Hayes. Also Old Pioneers, by Hillery Saunders. Mrs. Papke gave a talk entitled Going Back to School and Do Parents Love Teachers? Mrs. Aurelia Bruns accompanied the group in song. The health review given by Dr. Jeanette Holt instructed the group on how to Help the Doctor to Help You. An article entitled, Would You Like to Read Faster? was read by Mrs. Ruby Gougar. In response to roll call, the guests mentioned their favorite radio programs. Mrs. Rydberg entertained the group with several piano selections. The hostesses served refreshments. The October meeting will be held in the home of Miss Bess Jones and Mrs. Laura Morris, assisted by Mrs. Clementine Hendrixon. Mrs. Melba Reinhard and Mrs. Madeline Miller will serve on the program committee.

Mrs. Maude Spuehler entertained at a dinner in her home last week, honoring her mother, Mrs. Ida Pelkey on the occasion of her 85th birthday celebration. The table was centered with a huge birthday cake which bore the celebrants name. Candles and garden flowers completed the decorations. The afternoon was passed socially and the honored guest received many cards and gifts. Her grandson Pvt. Donald Tracy of Fort Sill, Okla. remembered her with a lovely gift.

Fighting For Our Form of Government Says Cong. Busbey

Congressman Fred E. Busbey, Republican who is running for reelection in the big 3rd district on the south and southwest sides, sees the issues in the campaign summarized in a forceful sentence: "We are fighting for the preservation of our republican form of government."

"If the American people do not wake up in time, they will find constitutional government lost," Busbey said. "It is now being threatened by Communists and the CIO political action committee, who have a common purpose to interweave their doctrines with the philosophy of the New Deal. They have made great progress."

Hits Hillman, Browder.
"The fourth term drive of these organizations is spearheaded by Earl Browder the Communist and Sidney Hillman of the PAC, men who were never in sympathy with our form of government. In this election it behooves all Americans to put country above party. The only way to stop the Communist drive is to vote Republican."

"To Democrats who love their party and want it to survive, there is but one choice—if the vote next month should be New Deal, then the Democratic party will be gone forever. Whatever parts of it are left will be dominated by Browder and Hillman."

Links Administration, PAC
Congressman Busbey said that the phrase, "Clear it with Sidney", correctly represented the alliance between the administration in Washington and the PAC-Communist axis. "This is substantiated," he continued, "by the great number of phone calls from PAC offices all over the country, and particularly from national headquarters in New York, to the White House."

Special target for the opposition of the "false CIO leadership" because of his activity as a member of the Dies committee, Busbey declared he welcomed such enemies and hopes to bring them into the open. He said that the great mass of labor, even in CIO, favors his candidacy, knowing that he is fighting their battles against alien influences.

Discloses Communist Trick.
"The rank and file may recognize the methods of the Communists used against me," he said. "They send emissaries to Republican precincts and try to persuade voters to stay away from the polls. That is a communist trick akin to the ones that let 2 million party members rule the 180 millions in Russia. Hillman and Browder will not deviate from the party line. They know they can't get anywhere as barefaced Communists; they hope to get away with it by indirection."

A veteran of the first World war, Busbey was formerly Americanism director for the Illinois department of the Legion. He is making an active campaign, speaking at several meetings a day. He has the full cooperation of the regular GOP organization and the Business Men's committee, who are striving to get every potential Republican vote registered by Oct 10 and intend to follow up with a drive to get them to the polling places on Nov. 7.

Kelley Blessed by PAC.
Opposing Busbey for the office is Edward A. Kelly, real estate and insurance broker who was elected congressman in 1930 and was re-elected 5 times before his defeat by 5,981 votes in 1942. In 1934 and 1936 his majority exceeded 50,000. Kelly is a member of the city hall organization and has the fervent blessing of the PAC and allied groups.

The ferment of revolt against New Deal regimentation is working strongly in the 4th district on the near southwest side, according to Republican nominee, Leo J. Koziaki, owner of a printing business and a veteran of ward politics.

Here's how to get more light for your home

Clean your lamp bulbs, reflectors and shades

Lighting equipment gives as much as 50% more light when bulbs, bowls and shades are clean. Dust or grime blocks the flow of light.

Always disconnect lamps from outlets before cleaning. Wash glass or plastic bulbs, bowls and reflectors with luke-warm, soapy cloth. Rinse bowls or reflectors to remove soap, but do not dip bulbs under water. Wipe suds off bulbs with damp cloth. Dry bulbs, bowls and reflectors thoroughly before attaching them to fixture.

You'll get more light for your money if you follow these simple suggestions.

"Boys, I'll tell you what Free Enterprise really is!"

"It's a lot of little things—and some mighty big things, too.

"But in a nutshell, it's our right to live our own lives, run our own farms and our own businesses in our own way—without needless interference.

"It's our right to criticize the government, bawl out the umpire, belong to the Grange, or make a speech on the public square. It's our right to travel when and where we choose—to work or not, as we please.

"It offers opportunity to anyone who really wants it. It rewards thrift, hard work and ingenuity. It thrives on competition and raises our standard of living. It encourages invention, stimulates research and promotes progress.

"It offers us a chance to save and invest and build and grow.

"Under Free Enterprise men who have faith in an idea can take risks to develop it. Our railways started that way. So did the motor car industry—and oil and steel and aviation and scientific mechanized farming.

"Free Enterprise made small farms and factories into big ones—and then started more small ones. And now, fighting a desperate war in which production will turn the scale, America is out-producing every other country in the world, hands down—and is doing it faster and better.

"Yet in spite of all this, some folks would like to change our American way of doing things—and rebuild our whole country under a new and different system.

"If they had their way, Tom here, wouldn't own this store. He'd be regimented with a lot of other storekeepers and told how to run his business by some bureaucrat who probably never tended store in his life.

"Ed's farm would belong to the state, and Ed would be told how to run it and what to raise by someone he wouldn't even know.

"Jim would be working for a state-owned factory—with his job and wages frozen. And I don't know where we country doctors would be.

"We fellows aren't rich—and probably never will be. But we've got a lot of self-respect and religion and common sense. We own our own homes and farms, send our kids to college, have cars, radios, and a lot more of the luxuries of life than millions of people living under fancy political systems and 'planned economies' in other countries.

"Sure, we're willing to put up with a lot of irritating things right now—in order to win the war—but I don't believe we'll stand for being pushed around much after it's over.

"Frankly, I don't like the name Free Enterprise for the system under which this country has grown great. I'd rather call it American Enterprise, because it's the most American thing we have. It really is America. Let's keep it."

"WAKE UP, AMERICA!"

Should Post Office Censorship Be Abolished?

Moderated by
FRED G. CLARK
Chairman, American
Economic Foundation

As debated by

Roger W. Baldwin
Executive Director, American
Civil Liberties UnionJohn S. Sumner
Executive Secretary, The New York
Society for the Suppression of Vice

MR. BALDWIN OPENS: The Postmaster General now has the power to keep out of the mails any matter which he thinks is obscene or sedition. What "he" thinks is determined by his lawyers. Any periodical, a book, a pamphlet can be outlawed, solely on the judgment of these lawyers. There are no hearings, except when second-class mailing privileges are revoked. There is no court review save on very narrow grounds. This is bureaucratic censorship with a vengeance. I hold no brief for obscenity or sedition. But they are vague terms; their concept constantly changes. The only fair way to determine the current public view of what is obscene or seditious is to lodge it in the courts. A judge and a jury can better reflect current morality and patriotism than bureaucrats. That system has been in successful operation for ten years in censoring literature imported from abroad. If it works in the Customs Service, it will work with the Post Office. Objectionable matter would be seized as now, and its distribution prevented until a court passed upon it. The public is entitled to freedom from bureaucratic censors, and to the protection of morals and government by the only forum capable of deciding fairly such controversial issues—the courts.

MR. SUMNER CHALLENGES: Maintenance of public health, public safety and public morals is an ancient police power of government. When either is threatened private rights are secondary. Publishers who are intelligent enough to publish books, magazines, etc., also know when the contents thereof are, or approach, the obscene. If they risk making money in this manner they cannot complain when the government intervenes. Enforcement by competent officials is prompt, whereas distribution would be complete before a court decision. There is a vast difference between the mechanics of mail handling and importations. Make the individual or corporation which is endangering public morals seek court review—not the people.

MR. BALDWIN REPLIES: Mr. Sumner argues that any publisher should know what is obscene. But even Mr. Sumner, an expert on obscenity, does not know it, for the courts have time and again thrown out his prosecutions. Nobody can know it, for views of what is obscene change. The best we can do is to leave it to the courts with juries of average citizens. That risks no danger to public morals, because all questioned matter, which publishers think decent enough to back up in court, would be seized and held for court decision. Perfectly practicable, perfectly fair all around—but censors don't trust courts and juries. They have been licked too often.

MR. SUMNER OPENS: The Constitution of the United States at Article 1, Section 8, Subdivision 7, provides: The Congress shall have power to establish post-offices and post-roads. Under this power the Congress has established post-offices and means of receipt, transportation and distribution of the mails. Use of these facilities is a privilege of the people, dependent upon compliance with certain regulations. One regulation is a requirement that nothing which experience has proved to be harmful from a moral standpoint, shall be deposited in the mails. No doubt it is in connection with the enforcement of this regulation that the question of censorship arises. As a matter of fact, these postal regulations are necessary BECAUSE THERE IS NO CENSORSHIP, that is, pre-publication censorship, which is the essence of censorship, but which no one wants. So long as we have unsocial persons who are eager to make money through the sale and distribution of morally harmful publications, it is proper and essential that there should be some agency to enforce regulations promptly and effectively against the receipt and transportation of such matters in the mails. The officials of the Post Office Department are competent to perform this service. Any arbitrary or unreasonable enforcement is subject to court review.

MR. BALDWIN CHALLENGES: Mr. Sumner contends some agency should bar smut from the mails. I agree. But bureaucratic censors are incompetent to determine what is "smut". Look at the Post Office Department record in banning "Esquire", "The Police Gazette", the medical sex pamphlet "Preparing for Marriage" and a long list of classics. Mr. Sumner holds that censorship consists only of action in advance of publication. Nonsense! Censorship exists when any publication is arbitrarily barred from readers. Court action, the right method, is miles from that kind of censorship. Doesn't Mr. Sumner trust our courts to review on merit? He is wrong about present review of Post Office powers; courts give the Post Office almost complete discretion.

MR. SUMNER REPLIES: Unfortunately Mr. Baldwin adopts as "argument" the usual "squawks" of all those trying to "put something over". "Esquire" was not censored nor banned. It was removed from the second-class mail group. That action has been sustained by court decision. Many magazines are improperly in that low rate class at the expense of the taxpayers. The Postmaster General's authority in the premises has now been judicially confirmed. Trusting "our courts to review on merit" is commonplace. How about "Murray Winters" and "Dial Peace"? Mr. Baldwin's Publishers and distributors of "smut" are public enemies. No method of legalized control is too drastic.

HOMER

Mrs. Fred Kopelman

Mrs. Leo Putz was one of the girls in charge at the Central Parts Warehouse at Rockdale, who received the meritorious civilian service award last week. ONE-TWO-THREE-FOUR-FIVE-SUGGESTIONS

...to help you make better use of your NEW Telephone Directory

WE TRY to make your telephone directory accurate and complete. These five suggestions, if followed, will increase its usefulness.

- 1 Be sure to discard your OLD telephone directory if it was not collected when the new one was delivered. (Don't destroy it—turn it over with other waste paper to your regular collector.)
- 2 If you have a memo list of numbers called frequently, verify these numbers now by looking in your NEW directory.
- 3 Always consult the directory when not sure of the number.

Calling from memory is a common cause of wrong numbers.

- 4 Look in your directory—don't ask "Information" for numbers listed there. This avoids making two calls instead of one.
- 5 Use the "Classified" section (yellow pages in most directories) to locate wanted products, services or professional help—especially important now that substitutes must be found.

UNFORTUNATELY (for its rivals), all this 1944 Navy football squad has is speed, skill, spirit, power, experience, abundance and able coaching. We have no thought of putting coach Commander Oscar Hagberg, the submarine leader, on the spot by saying he has an unbeatable team. There is no such animal, as even Notre Dame discovered last fall. But in line and backfield he has about all that a head coach needs, which the cool, quiet commander cheerfully admits.

For one detail the Navy squad carries along at least 12 fine backs, including such stars as Bob Jenkins, late of Alabama, and Ralph Ellsworth, one of the best backs Texas has ever sent to the field. And we have no idea of overlooking Hal Hamberg, an all-around ball of fire.

Fast hard-hitting backs flit up and down the field in profusion and they will be working back of a strong line, headed by Don Whitmire, the 220-pound tackle, better known as the Decatur Destroyer. In Ellsworth and Jim Pettit, Navy has two backs who can hit around 9.6 or 9.7 for the 100-yard dash, probably the two fastest in the country. Two-hundred pound Bob Jenkins is sure to be one of the stars of the autumn highway.

There isn't space enough to name them all—Baron of Vanderbilt, Earley of Notre Dame, Ambrogio of Penn, Duder, Finos, Barksdale, Sullivan and others.

The eligibility of Whitmire, Jack Martin and one or two others has given the Gold and Blue line just what it needed. I watched Rip Miller's countenance for some time without discovering a single salty tear coursing down either cheek. Rip is the line coach and one who knows his trade.

Hagberg Optimistic

Commander Hagberg came from somewhere near the bottom of the Pacific to take over Captain Whelchel's job. While talking with him who would pop up but Commanders Slade Cutter and Dornier, also just from the Pacific's depths with its wreckage of Japanese ships. Both were former Navy stalwarts.

"I am forced to break down and admit that we have a good squad," Coach Hagberg said.

"It is certainly all that any coaching staff could expect to find. We have 10 or 12 fast, hard-hitting backs. We have a good first line in front of them—possibly a pretty good second line. We certainly have our share of speed and two good passers in Hamberg and Ellsworth. You won't find a better tackle than Don Whitmire who is not only big and active, but always keen to go. It would be foolish, however, to say we won't be beaten.

"We also know what Army has," the commander said. "We know the type of football that such backs as Glen Davis, Douglas Kenna, Sensenbaur (Ohio State) and six or eight others can turn out.

"This is sure to be a strong, fast Army team, looking for revenge after what has happened in the last five years. But tell Red Blaik I had nothing to do with this."

Classy Coaching

"This is a good Navy football squad," Rip said. "It can turn on the smoke and it has the punch. But among others don't let anybody tell you that N. C. Pre-Flight, Notre Dame and Army don't have good teams—not overlooking Duke, Ga. Tech and Purdue. What about Notre Dame? I can tell you something about this—it isn't the wrecking outfit of 1943, but Ed McKeever has a great bunch on hand, one of the strongest squads of the year. He hasn't what Frank Leahy had last fall, but he has plenty, including a fine passer to work with his T-formation. Every team which happens to face this Irish line-up will have trouble. All I can say is that any team that can take this Navy squad will have to be extra good on that one day. You can't always tell about football. But we have good stuff here, including a few that I think are standouts. We have more good backs than we have linemen so far, but we still have our share in the line."

All of this would indicate that Navy is likely to have a pretty fair season and possibly win a few of its games, despite the fact that Captain Humphries, graduate manager, has arranged the strongest schedule he could get.

Detroit's Wakefield

"Before Wakefield rejoined the Tigers, York was the only hitter that the enemy pitchers were afraid of in a pinch. They could pass him and settle down to get the next man and have little worry about the men on base getting home. They can't now, for Wakefield is dangerous. He may not hit as many home runs, but he is even more likely to smash a timely game-winning hit over second base." Charley Hughes, headman at the Detroit Athletic club, was speaking.

Farm Woodlands Good Income Source

Most Wood Items Can Be Homemade

Farmers make up one of the largest consumer groups for forest products. Construction and maintenance of farm buildings require 3½ billion board feet of lumber annually, with another 2½ billion going into boxes and crates. In addition, pulpwood requirements for cartons and bags, plus wagon wood stock, wood for farm machinery, and other uses take still more lumber.

Specific uses of forest products on farms include repair of farm buildings, repair of farm implements such as wagons, wood stock for wagon tongues, eveners, wagons, boxes, hayracks, tool handles, new livestock and poultry production, fence posts and gates, and new buildings for replacing losses caused by tornadoes, fires and storms.

Marketing the fruit and vegetable crops only in 1944 will require some 190 million new baskets and hampers, 450 million berry cups, 50 million wirebound veneer boxes, more than 300 million nailed boxes and crates, and large quantities of paper and pulp products for wraps, liners, pads, bags and cartons. Additional containers will be necessary for other farm crops.

Increasing farm woodland production will help in meeting such marketing needs which are essential to the food production program, according to WFA, which reports that the many veneer mills, basket and crate factories, and pulp and paper mills look to the farmer for a major portion of their supplies of logs and bolts.

Limestone Will

Save War Crops

It has been estimated that farmers in the United States, excluding the arid and semi-arid areas where the natural supply of lime is adequate, could profitably use 35 to 40 million tons of ground limestone or its equivalent every year. This goal has never been approached. The nearest that American farmers have come to it was in 1942, when it is estimated that they used almost 21,000,000 tons. Of this, 18,971,000 tons, or about 90 per cent, was applied under the AAA conservation program. Owing to shortages of labor and transportation it is estimated that the quantity used fell off to around 16,000,000 tons in 1943. This year, it is hoped that at least 22,000,000 tons will be available.

The active ingredient of superphosphate is phosphorus, which government soil scientists say is the element of fertility most often deficient in corn belt and other American soils. While superphosphate, like other commercial fertilizers, has long been used on cropland, the need for supplying it to hay and pasture land has been less generally recognized. Yet tests have shown that seven 1,000-bushel carloads of corn or oats take from the land as much phosphorus as is in the plowed surface of the average acre. Ten 13-ton carloads of mixed hay, or half that quantity of alfalfa hay, carry away as much phosphorus as seven carloads of corn.

From the inception of the agricultural conservation program in 1936 through 1942, 4,049,000 tons of superphosphate (in terms of 20 per cent available phosphorus) had been applied in the continental United States under the AAA. Of this, 1,073,000 tons were applied during 1942. In 1936, the figure was 121,000 tons.

The estimated United States production of superphosphate, 20 per cent basis, was 5,353,000 tons in 1942. It increased about 20 per cent to 6,400,000 tons in 1943, and a further increase may be obtained this year.

Agricultural Facts

One hundred and fifty thousand farmers will be unable to contribute food to the nation's war effort next year because it will take all their time and labor to raise food for rats.

Count ahead four months and then back 10 days from breeding time to determine when sows will farrow.

Culling of broody hens and early moulting will save the farmers of America millions each year.

Monkey Business

By HELEN THOMPSON
McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

WHAT d'you suppose those guys are up to now?" groaned Bill Simpson, Williams' Wonder Circus's advance agent, as he watched the gang from Dr. Lyle's Miraculous Medicine Show pulling up to our lot.

The first man off Lyle's lead wagon was none other than Dr. Lyle himself. "Well, well, well," he belted, striding across the lot fanning himself with his broadbrimmed Stetson. "If it isn't Williams' Wonder Circus, famous in show history as the outfit that manages to get along season after season without any customers!"

"Sorry I'll have to run out on you, Doc," growled the boss, "but we're just getting ready to start our afternoon parade."

"I know," Doc announced. "And I'm going to follow with my new band. They've got a lot in common with your fellows so I want them to see your people work." Then he looked over at his wagons. "Send the new squad out here!" he bawled.

Eight little monkeys in red suits with gold braid, almost exactly like the uniforms of our band, came scampering across the lot. Each one was carrying a miniature cornet or trombone. And when they started to play, the racket was ear-splitting.

Well, we never had a worse parade in all our history. Doc and his monkeys tore ahead and waited for us on every corner. They sure wrecked our music. And, worst of all, the crowd didn't look twice at our procession. They were only interested in Doc and the monkeys.

"How did Doc ever train those apes, Jim?" Bill was watching Doc's band go through its paces.

"It's easy," said Jim. "Each one of those mouthpieces is pushed out a little bit. Inside there's a thin reed that'll sound on the slightest suction."

"How did Doc ever train those apes,"

And right behind that there's a place where you put a piece of hard candy. So, when the monkey sucks the candy he sucks the reed too, and you get this racket."

Just then Doc came alongside the callopie. "Nice of you guys to work for my show, especially when you're not getting paid for it," he gibed. "Do you think we'd work for an outfit that stooped to put on fake acts like that monkey band?" Bill drawled. "They don't make any noise with those horns. They've got whistles in their mouths or something."

"I'll stake my reputation as a showman on the fact that those brasses are genuine miniature instruments!" Doc raged. "Can I come over to your lot and examine them?" Bill asked. "Absolutely!" Doc bellowed.

"What's the matter with you?" Jim said after Doc had gone. "Didn't you hear me tell you those horns are the real thing?"

Bill looked at his watch and straightened his tie. "I got an idea," he said with a wink. "Meet me at Doc's show tonight."

At eight o'clock Doc started his spiel about his Rare Simian Stunted Apes.

Then the curtains parted with a flourish and there stood the eight monkeys, each with his instrument up to his mouth and his tail curled around his feet. The audience applauded wildly. At a signal from Doc, the animals let go. But instead of the usual gala blast there was a series of little squeaks.

The monkeys were amazed. First they shook their instruments and tried to take them apart. Then they looked at one another. Finally, they all threw the horns on the floor and sat down with their heads in their hands. And no amount of cajoling by Doc could make them try again.

In a minute those cries which are a showman's nightmare began coming from the bleachers. "Fake!" "Gimme my money back!"

"What'd you do?" Jim demanded as soon as they were out of the tent.

Bill offered Jim the contents of a small paper bag.

"No, thanks," Jim said. "And stop holding out on me. Give me the low-down."

"So you don't like these things either," Bill said. "Well, I do, because from now on I can say that I made a monkey out of Doc by replacing eight little pieces of striped peppermint candy with eight little slices of very sour pickle."

Memos of a Newspaperman:

Time echoed the oddity-in-the-news about the soldier overseas who was hit by a shell fragment which contained the number on his own dog-tag . . . The newspapers fell for it, too, a week earlier when a Canadian Press dispatch said an RCAF batman was named as the one it actually happened to in Normandy . . . The report stated that his name was George McMillan of Nova Scotia. The number on the fragment was 26750—the number on his identity card . . . The Herald Tribune carried it, too, a week after it published an article (Aug. 13th) in its magazine section titled: "Lucky Shot" by Gen. Patton's wife. She said it happened in the last war!

Lou Holtz and some others were reminiscing about Ziegfeld and how the master-showman always "had class" even when he couldn't afford it.

There was the time, frivexample, when Ziegfeld was in Hollywood after squandering another fortune on a failure in New York. He wired his old friend Ed Wynn . . . "I know I owe you $65,000," it said, "but I need $7,500 desperately. Will you help me out again?"

Wynn instructed his bankers to rush Ziegfeld the $7,500 . . . Ziegfeld used it to return to N. Y. in a private Pullman!

Max Herzberg, who collected a bookful of anecdotes which he christened: "Insults," considers this his favorite. . . . Once Disraeli and Gladstone collided verbally in the House and as Gladstone came out after adjournment he was still shaking with rage. . . . He glimpsed Disraeli chatting with other members and he shouted: "Sir, you will come to your end either on the gallows or by some terrible plague!" Disraeli adjusted his monocle and softly intoned: "I should say, Mr. Gladstone, that depends upon whether I embrace your principles or your mistress."

The G-Men follow through on every tip, of course. . . . You never can tell. . . . Several of them were assigned to a real hot one last week. . . . A woman, reported the informant, had many signs in her bathroom reading: "Good morning, Mein Fuehrer." . . . "Heil Hitler!" and "What have you done today to improve the Master Race?" . . . FBI agents, disguised as plumbers, investigated and confirmed the tip. . . . "You bet I put them up!" she boasted. "But I'm not a Nazi!" . . . It took hours before they broke her down. . . . She was fed up with her husband's dictatorial attitude, and he had stopped speaking to her. . . . She hoped to insult him by comparing him with Hitler!

Add capsule criticisms that will live: Don Herold's: "The dogs in 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' are poorly supported by the cast." . . . Robert Benchley: "Perfectly Scandalous" was one of those plays in which all of the actors unfortunately enunciated very clearly." . . . Anon: "The trouble with Katharine Hepburn in 'The Lake' is that she didn't throw herself into it enough."

Notes of an Innocent Bystander:

The Magazines: Newsweek's good word-wedding. Its drama critic, describing a singer portraying a hammy actress, wrote: "She plays the role of a Mae Westphalian prima donna." . . . The same mag reminds Russian-baiters that the Soviet casualties are almost five times greater than the U. S. and British combined. . . . "Seventeen," a new mag for the junior-miss set, has a refreshing slant. . . . Earl Wilson is represented in Everybody's Digest, a mag with zing. . . . Pic rolls out the silver lining for scientists who insist civilization can attain Utopia. Meanwhile we'll be content with the closest thing to it—America. . . . American Mercury's circulation is climbing steadily and for good reason. It makes sense. . . . John Roy Carlson, the "Under Cover" author, does another excellent job in The Woman magazine. . . . In a few weeks the same mag offers his "Daughters of Dissension and Defeat," which undresses the various phony "Mother Patriotic Clubs."

Navy Sec'y Forrestal got a huge howl at the Waldorf dinner in his honor with this: "There are two wars. We are winning the first one and we are going to win the second. But there are too many experts! That reminds me of the expert engineer who knew what it was all about. You know what an expert is. He's a mechanic away from home!"

Capt. J. Farra, 51, has been in the Army 35 years. . . . He was asked to fill out another questionnaire. The first question was: "Civilian occupation?" . . . To which Farra jotted down: "Child!" . . . In Indianapolis a man was nabbed climbing over the wall of the Indiana women's prison. The police learned he was the prison engineer and had forgotten his keys. . . . A certain prima donna complained to a newspaper man that she was getting nervous and irritable and just didn't want to see people. "Give a concert," he suggested.

Matching Cornice And Radiator Shelf

THIS winter as last we should remember that the purpose of a radiator is to radiate heat and that we are not getting the maximum from fuel if we box the radiator in with a tight cover. The shelf shown here is built well above the radiator and curving up under the shelf is a metal heat reflector which also covers the wall back of the radiator. The front and end of the shelf are trimmed with cut-out wooden scallops repeating the curves of those used for the cornice shelf above.

The cornice fits over the top of the window frame but is considerably wider to allow the overdraperies to hang straight at the sides of the radiator which is the width of the window. The sketch at the left shows how nails hold the box-like cornice in place and how the draperies are held inside with cup hooks.

NOTE--The attractive chair beside the radiator shelf is made with pattern No. 265. Scallop pattern No. 207 illustrates the steps in making cornices and also gives actual size pattern for scallops for cornice and edging of the shelf. Patterns are 15 cents each. Address:

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Rationing of tires and gas has its headaches, but government agencies estimate that it has been responsible for cutting in half the annual scrapping of used cars.

In 1941 the U. S. consumed some 766,000 long tons of natural rubber, an all-time peak, but in 1944 the country is expected to use only 164,000 long tons. Added to that, of course, is an enormous tonnage of synthetic rubber.

Talking of tire conservation, city driving, with "stop and go" conditions, causes seven times as much wear on tires as 25-mile-per-hour driving in rural sections. Also misalignment of wheels may cause 10 times normal tire wear.
